In 2016, Mr. Dushyant Dubey arrived in Bengaluru with a passionate vision to ignite positive change in the city. Known affectionately as "St. Broseph" on Reddit, Mr. Dubey has become a renowned social worker whose efforts have significantly impacted various aspects of the community. Through his compelling stories, he illustrated the enduring impact of his social contributions, touching upon areas such as animal shelters, support for rural communities, and aid for underprivileged children. His dedication to these causes exemplifies his commitment to taking that crucial step forward to create an indelible impact on society.

Mr. Dubey's speech highlighted the steadfast advocacy his team has provided for crime victims, showcasing their tireless efforts to support and uplift those in need. As his speech progressed, he expressed his ambition to leave a lasting legacy in Bengaluru through his multifaceted contributions. His dedication to civic awareness, animal welfare, women's empowerment, mental health, and urban beautification has earned him widespread recognition and admiration.

Often referred to as the "Batman of Bangalore," Mr. Dubey is celebrated for his unwavering commitment to providing ground and legal support to anyone in the city who requires assistance. This title reflects his role as a vigilant and compassionate protector of the community, always ready to lend a helping hand.

In addition to his social work, Mr. Dubey is the co-founder and Creative Director of Nammawalls, an art collective with a mission to transform public walls into vibrant canvases that celebrate history and culture. One of their most notable projects is the "Freedom Wall" series, a collection of 100 wall paintings in Indiranagar commemorating 75 years of Indian Independence. This initiative has not only beautified the urban landscape but also instilled a sense of pride and historical awareness among the city's residents.

Through his relentless efforts and innovative initiatives, Mr. Dushyant Dubey continues to inspire and make a profound difference in Bengaluru, leaving an enduring mark on the city and its people.

Summary:

In his TEDxNHCE talk, Dushyant Dubey narrates his empowering journey in Bengaluru, where he arrived in 2016 without a job or family. Feeling isolated, he found purpose through volunteering in various social causes, inspired by the city's rich heritage and figures like George Fernandes, India's renowned union leader. During the pandemic, Dubey actively supported those harassed by local authorities, leading to the creation of the St. Broseph initiative. He underscores the importance of community support, illustrated by the growth of the St. Joseph Army, a network dedicated to assisting those in need. His approach to social work is marked by unwavering selflessness, determination, and a daily commitment to making a positive impact. Dubey's involvement in social causes spans a broad spectrum, from civic awareness and animal welfare to women's empowerment and mental health. His efforts during the pandemic were particularly impactful, as he provided crucial support to those facing undue harassment, embodying the principles of justice and advocacy inspired by George Fernandes. The formation of the St. Broseph initiative was a direct response to these challenges, aiming to create a supportive community network. The St. Joseph Army, another significant achievement, reflects Dubey's vision of a community united in support of one another. This growing network symbolizes the potential for collective action and mutual aid, reinforcing Dubey's belief in the power of community. His relentless dedication to social work, characterized by selflessness and a daily commitment to positive change, continues to inspire many in Bengaluru and beyond. Throughout his talk, Dubey emphasizes the transformative power of community support and the importance of taking consistent, small steps towards making a difference. His journey from isolation to becoming a beacon of hope and support for many exemplifies the impact one individual can have when driven by a genuine desire to help others.

TEDx Talk Report

The speaker of the session is Mr. Dushyant Dubey. He is also known as "Batman of Bengaluru". He highlights his journey from being a tech individual to become a prominent social worker. His story began when he came to Bengaluru, a city with wonderful heritage but knowing nothing about the city. So he decided to take a place to stay in Indiranagar and started to volunteer as a social worker. He has previously volunteered in cities like Ahmedabad and Mumbai in animal welfare, rural empowerment etc. Then he came across a man named George Fernandes who was his greatest inspiration and continue to be so. He was the voice of the voiceless. But Dushyant wanted to do something with his true capabilities and hence posted a post and read it saying that when anyone needs help with harassment by ^{people} Rogue, to contact him.
